NORWAY AND VICINITY

Doves, Mice and Cold Weather

Those pesky doves that roost on the Advertiser building, greatly to the annoyance of everybody, have had a hard time during the cold spell. Mother relented and scattered dry bread crumbs on the piazza roof. She could not think of them starving and freezing. We suggested she open the window and let them in to sit on her much prized flower pots nights.

This brings to mind that we once found a field mouse hunting for food in the road during a severe cold spell. We picked the little fellow up and brought him home in our coat pocket and fed him. He was not a bit afraid and ate readily and ravenously from our hand. He liked cheese better than bread, although he ate of both.

We couldn't kill the bright-eyed innocent creature, so put him in the cellar and fed him cheese, doughnuts and apples all winter. With the warm weather of spring he ran away and never returned.

We hope the doves will do the same.

Art of Curd Cheese Making

There is a big difference in curd cheese. Some are better than others or maybe your appetite shifts and the cheese is the same all the time.

At Leavitt's on Orchard Street the curd cheese tastes so like that we have at home we remarked about it. Investigation showed that the cheese was made by sisters, one living under Pike's Hill and the other in Milletville. The same mother taught the girls the cheese making art and the product is the same even if they live on different farms.

Arthur Hebbard tells of the "Reed Club." He shows a Reed button he wore in the summer of 1896. On it is a fiery tom cat, 1896, for President, which means that Thomas Brackett Reed of Portland, Maine aspired for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the United States and was defeated in the convention by McKinley. As to the occasion of wearing a white badge, Arthur does not remember.

BASKETBALL

Edward Little 61; N. H. S. 30

Completely outclassed in every department, Norway High School outfit was ransacked and buffetted by the speedy team from Auburn Friday evening. Norway put in the first basket within half a minute after the opening whistle, this was the only moment the home crowd had any jump on the visitors. Edward Little started down the pike at a swift pace and had Norway slipping behind where the distanced flag fell with a dismal thud.

Edward Little, has yet to be defeated by a state of Maine team and played the role of champions. Their shooting, passing, blocking and guarding were superior articles neatly executed. The Watson twins were clearly the stars with a passion for basket weaving. Nevers of Norway clicked off numerous points, but so carefully was he guarded and blocked his ability to handle the pill was not given full swing. His work on the foul line was accurate and nearly perfect.

Both teams were freely penalized by Referee Austin and numerous warnings given. Considerable near-rough stuff developed and the game would not pass as one free from a strong football flavor. Bill Ledger was retired by a personal rule before the end of the first period and "Manny" Palmer played the position.

Norway gained a new lease on life in the second period and went after the ball with a slam. Their floor work showed up more prominently and basket shooting more accurate. Less fumbling in the scrimmages lent speed and many plays were equal to the best efforts of the visitors. Although overwhelmed, the team played consistently and plugged away with a barrel of courage and no little amount of sporting blood. That the outfit could hold the champions, as they did, and score against the highly trained athletes are points worthy to consider while comparing notes. The score:

Norway Girls 19; McFalls Girls 0

In a clean, snappy way, Norway girls showed in the preliminary Friday evening how good team work, expert passing, and alertness could pile a score to nineteen points with opponents nothing to their credit. Mechanic Falls girls played a good game but their forwards could not shoot because of our ever-present, ne'er-give-up guards. Norway's center is a whizz, and surely her forwards compare very favorably with the rest of the team. Considering the fact that only two of the girls have played on the team other years, the team shows able coaching and hard practice. The score:

F. Ernest Holman

F. Ernest Holman of Portland died Sunday night at 11 o'clock in a Lewiston Hospital where he had been for more than a week for treatment. He was head of the Holman School of Accountancy in Portland and became ill while in Lewiston installing a new accounting system, which was a gift by him to the city; through the Lewiston and Auburn Rotary Club.

It was not at first supposed his illness would prove serious. It was thought that a few days' confinement in his room at the DeWitt Hotel with proper medical treatment would see him again out, but he did not respond to treatment and several days ago it was thought wise to move him to the hospital, where better care could be afforded than in the hotel. For a time it was thought he was improving, but a change which came Saturday proved more than his weakened constitution could stand and the end came Sunday.

Mr. Holman was in Lewiston at this time as the result of an address which he made several months ago before the Rotary Club. At that time he promised the club members that if certain civic and political benefits were accomplished in the city of Lewiston he would present it with a modern accounting system, suited to its needs. These conditions came about and true to his word, Mr. Holman gave the system and went to install it and instruct the city officials in its use.

He was born in Charlestown, Mass., Dec. 16, 1874, and was the son of Rev. and Mrs. William O. Holman. Mr. Holman's father was one of the leading Baptist clergymen of New England, and Mr. Holman was the youngest son. He was married in April, 1913, to Elizabeth Allen Curtis of Hartford, Conn.

After their marriage they made their home in Waterville and Portland and had recently removed to Norway.

Mr. Holman was educated in the public schools of Rockland and Colby Classical Institute. He took the high school course in Rockland in two years time and was the youngest pupil ever graduated at that time.

He worked for the John Bird Co., the North National Bank, and went into the investment business with Nathan Farwell under the firm name of Farwell & Holman and later was made general auditor of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. He was made chairman of the State Board of Accountancy when that board was created and served it several years. He started the Holman School of Accountancy in Portland, which he sold several years ago, and founded the Holman Audit Co. of Portland. He was one of Maine's leading accountants and was certified asa C. P. A. not only in Maine but in many other States.

He leaves besides his wife, his mother, Mrs. Lucy M. Holman of Portland and three brothers, C. Vey Holman of Bangor, Dudley M. Holman of the United States Mutual Liability Insurance Co. of Quincy and William A. Holman, vice president of the Chas. H. Gilman and Co. of Portland.

Mr. Holman attended the First Parish Church of Portland and was a member of the Order of Maccabees.

The funeral was held from the home on Main St., Wednesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. C. G. Miller, pastor of the Universalist church officiating. Interment will be in Pine Grove Cemetery. The bearers were; E. R. Clark, president of the Kenwood Woolen Mills of Corinna, F. A. Danforth, Augusta, John J. Fagan, Esq., Portland, Leon A. Dresser, Portland, Treasurer of Holman Audit Co., Vivian M. Akers, Norway, Edwin S. Cummings, Norway. Lawrence M. Carroll and Hon. Albert J. Stearns were to have assisted in this capacity but owing to the illness of Mr. Stearns and the absence of Mr. Carroll who was away on a business trip they were both unable to officiate, both were warm business friends of the deceased.

There was an unusually large display of floral tribute such as is seldom seen in a private home and among them were the following:

Wreath—Carroll-Jellerson Shoe Co.
Large spray 6 doz. Blush Roses—E. R. Clark, Corinna.
Spray 4 doz. Jacquemont Roses—Leon O. Dresser, Portland.
Spray, Dark Red Roses—William Henry Stone Post American Legion, Norway.
Pillow of Roses—The aged mother and brother.
Large spray Carnations—C. B. Cummings & Sons Co., Norway.
Spray of Calla Lilies—Wife.
Also many large and beautiful sprays and bouquets of cut flowers from many friends.

Congregational Church Notes

Sunday Services: Preaching service at 10:30. The pastor will preach upon, "Disappointing One's Future." Bible school at 12 o'clock; classes for all ages. The Juniors have a service at 3 p. m., leader Harry Smith. At 6:30 the Christian Endeavor Society has a missionary service with Mrs. Jennie B. Russell as leader. "One of Our Favorite Hymns" will be considered at the public service at 7:30.

Thursday evening at 7:30 the pastor will give a talk on the "Most Important Book Ever Written."

There will be an important meeting of the Parish Wednesday evening February first. All who would like to see the church building put into a better serviceable condition are urged to be present.

Although the weather last Sunday was far from inviting for an Every Member Canvass and some of the workers were sick, the returns for the work are the best in the history of the church. Who said the church is a decadent insitution? At any rate, men have come to realize that the ideals of the church are indispenable to the welfare of the home and community.

A contest started in the Junior Endeavor Sunday afternoon with the members divided into two teams. Grace McAllister is captain of the "Pinks" and Philip Saleeby, captain of the "Greens", Obect to secure new members, keep up general work for the society. Contest runs until April 1, and will conclude with a supper. In the canvass Sunday, the Juniors signed $20.00 for the church budget and $5 for benevolences.

The C. W. Class of the Sunday School met in the vestry on Wednesday evening, Jan. 18. After a picnic supper, a business meeting was held and the following officers elected for the coming year:

Pres.—Elinor F. Saunders.
Vice Pres.—Addie Longley.
Sec.—Mabel Perry.
Treas.—Inez McAllister.

The following committees have also been appointed:

Sunshine Com.—Helen Richardson, Dorothy Newcomb, Ciara Hall, Celia Hancock.
Outlook Com.—Georgianna Martin, Eleanor Smith, Nellie Glines, Mildred Taylor.
Entertainment Com.—Vera Smith, Dorothy Goodrich, Josephine McAllister, Verna Kimball, Beatrice Drake.

The C. W. Class was first organized in Jan. 1921, with 9 members enrolled and Mrs. Elon Brown as teacher. During the year 1921 16 new members were gained and 2 were lost, one leaving town and the other going to another Sunday School.

The class entertained Mr. Parker's class of boys twice during the year, once at the vestry and the other time at Evergree cottage. They were also entertained twice in return.

The class was very helpful in the church work during the year, having had entire charge of Children's day exercises, assisted at Rally day and served on the mystery table committee at the church fair. At the beginning of the year 1922 there were 23 members enrolled, since then 3 new ones have joined, making a total enrollment of 26.

Plans are now in progress for an entertainment and social to be given for the purpose of raising money for the benefit of the class and the World Movement Fund. It is the hope of the class to do a great deal more this year than last and to increase their numbers.

The High School girls basket ball team will play at Mexico Friday evening. The boys play the same evening at West Paris.

Adams & Gilman of Bridgton are located at the Norway Auto Co. Garage where they will sell the Durant car.

Mrs. W. A. Holman and daughter, Doris of Portland were week end guests of G. Leon Curtis and family, Danforth street. Mildred Curtis was at home from Yarmouth for the week end. Mr. Holman was unable to come as he was called to Lewiston by the illness of his brother, F. Ernest Holman.

Tubbs Party in Oregon

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deane Tubbs of Phillips, who are making a horseback ride from the Maine town to Los Angeles, Calif., and back for the sport of the trip, have been in Portland Ore., where they were resting for a few days before continuing on their southern trip.

Mr. Tubbs tells of crossing the continental divide at an altitude of 6,965 ft. The morning they went over, it was clear and the view was magnificent. There was no snow although it was well along in the fall. They proceeded direct to Butte, Montana, the largest mining camp in the world, where they had a very enjoyable stop. Cold weather and snow storms made it advisable for them to hold to the valley road through Deer Lodge.

The Montana State Prison, located at Deerfoot, was visited by them. Continuing on their ride they passed through Drummond and Hellgate Canyon into Missouri. They camped out all the way on this section of the ride and Mr. Tubbs says they little realized that within ten days there would be 30 inches of snow on a level and the mercury would be down to 32 below, yet such was the case.

Missouri was reached in a blinding snow storm, the worst which that section had experienced in many years. All roads were blocked. It was impossible for them to proceed on horseback and so, after a few days it was deemed wise to proceed to Spokane by train and there resume the riding. This course was followed and they reached Spokane on Nov. 22, and the next day resumed their ride, heading south by the way of Pasco, Kenecocock, Wash., and the north bank of the Columbia River. At Keneocock they entered the lower end of the Yukon Valley.

"It seemed rather odd," writes Mr. Tubbs, "to find apples so abundant as we did in this section of our trip, but we enjoyed them, nevertheless."

They found the weather warm, like dogdays in Maine but the nights were cool, though not cold enough to freeze things and most of the region was green with winter grain.

Going into Goldenlake they were within 12 miles of Mt. Adams, 12,307 feet high, and snow-capped the year 'round. In the distance they could see Mt. Hood and Mt. St. Helen.

During this ride down to Portland, Ore., they found one place on the road which was not snow covered. It was decidedly a hard bit of traveling, but they managed to negotiate it, though it was necessary to take the horses over one at a time, as the drifts were from five to thirty feet deep and hard as a rock. This was in a canyon, which was about half a mile wide and 1555 feet deep on one side and 1400 on the other.

At Lyle they came to the Columbia river. There they found that the roads south were blocked for a way and they were forced to make a short detour by the road, and then finished the ride into Portland, Ore.

Alfred A. Everett went to Portland Wednesday for an X-ray examination of the teeth at the Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary. It is expected several teeth may be extracted to avoid infection. His eyes will also be operated on before he returns. Mr. Everett was in Portland about seven weeks ago for consultation.

Another cold morning appeared Wednesday with temperature between 16 and 25 below zero. The air was still and the low mark was not noticeable in the majority of homes. A short trip outside convinced the most skeptical themometers were truthful.

A big game is on at Norway Opera House Saturday evening. Norway High and the Woodstock High School of Bryant's Pond will clash in a fast session. The visitors are a rapid fire outfit and classed among the leading school boy teams in Maine. Their work is clean cut and sure, so will give Norway one of the biggest runs on their schedule. Dancing after the game, music by Anderson.

Fire Deartment Entertained

Charles W. Bowker, Chief Engineer of the South Paris Fire Department, gave the boys a complementary spread at Grand Army Hall Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. It was a real supper according to the unanimuos verdict of about seventy-five hungry mortals who responded quickly to the alarm in the form of an urgent invitation to be present.

Chief Engineer Bowker was chef, head waiter and master of ceremonies, with numerous assistants to make everything move quickly. The menu included steamed clams, baked beans, sandwiches, pies, doughnuts, cheese, coffee, and apples. No slackers were seated around the tables for the boys went after the good things with a relish and played up strong to the delight of the host.

Cigars were lighted and the popular A. E. Morse convulsed all with his humorous readings. He gave two selections and had the hall rocking with merriment. When the crowd recovered and returned to normal the practice for the evening commenced. A hydrant set on the stage with two lengths of hose with a nozzle strung along on the floor made the setting for more fun. Each Company started six men from the sidewalk in front of Frothingham's store, made the run from the street to the stage and coupled on the hydrant. Hose Co. No. 1 and Hook and Ladder Co. were tied at 32 seconds; others were high as 40 seconds. Hook and Ladder won in 27 seconds on the final; No. 1 made it in 22 seconds but a cross-thread coupling disqualified them.

Adelbert L. Cates

After suffering from a short illness with pneumonia Adelbert L. Cates aged 45 died Friday morning Jan. 20 at the home of Zenas Morse on Western Ave.

Mr. Cates had made his home with the Morse family the past nineteen years and was employed on the railroad at Island Pond, Vt., when taken ill. He returned to South Paris the preceeding Wednesday and failed rapidly.

He was a member of West Paris Lodge of Odd Fellows. He never married and leaves no near relatives. Funeral was held Sunday afternoon and the remains placed in the tomb at Pine Grove Cemetery.

CHEERFUL WORDS

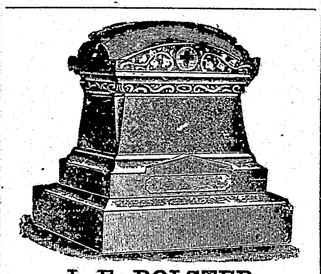

For Many a Norway Household

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove helpful to hundreds of Norway readers.

Mrs. Myrtie Payne, 237 Main St., Norway, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and am thoroughly satisfied they are a dependable remedy. I had more or less pain across my back and kidneys. It annoyed me very much and when stooping and lifting, I felt it more. I found Doan's Kidney Pills good for the trouble and after I used this remedy the pains lessened. I have been practically free from the trouble since and I feel the remedy deserves my recommendation." (Statement given June 7, 1916.)

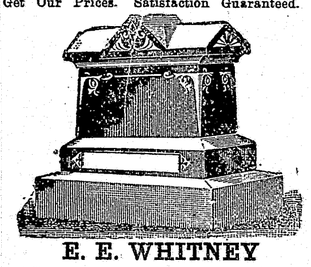

On September 3, 1920, Mrs. Payne said: "I recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as highly today as I have during several years past. The great good they did me has lasted and my faith in the remedy has remained firm."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Payne had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE JUST-AS-GOOD-AS MAN

When I would buy a cake of soap that's suited to my mind
I much resent the man who keep the "just-as-good-as" kind.
In breakfast foods, and potted meats and sardines in a can,
The kind I want I want, despite the "just-as-good-as" man.
And if I'd go to Rome, N. Y., it plays the very deuce,
To have the porter put me off at night at Syracuse,
And later on excuse himself, and impudently say
That "Syracuse is just-as-good-as Rome is any day."
In short, that "just-as-good-as" man is on my nuisance list,
And some day I devoutly hope we'll find that he is missed,
Not to appear upon the sphere again until that hoot
When Gabriel drops his ancient horn and blows his substi-toot.

—JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

OXFORD

HAD JUST ABOUT LOST ALL HOPE

After Suffering Six Years He Takes Tanlac and Troubles End—Wife Also Benefited

"When I saw what Tanlac was doing for my wife, I started taking it too, and today we are both in as good health as we ever were," said Edward U. Clark of Hermon, Maine.

"For five or six years I had been bothered with rheumatism and stomach trouble. The rheumatism had pulled me down until I felt I was just about gone. My back hurt nearly all the time and many a day I couldn't hold out at work and had to quit and go home. I was sleepless at night and that made me weak and all run down. What I ate always soured and caused gas and bloating and terrible pains and at times my heart would palpitate something awful.

"My wife was getting such fine results from Tanlac that I started taking it myself and today I can't tell I ever had the rheumatism. My stomach never gives me a sign of trouble and I am eating anything set before me. I sleep like a top and when morning comes I am up and ready for work.

"My wife looks better in every way, can do her housework with ease and says she feels stronger than she has in years."

JOSEPH ANDREWS VISITS MAINE

One of the most prosperous and successful farmers of West Fryeburg is Dean A. Ballard, my nephew with whom I visited several days. Dean was not well but he did not have time to be sick, so he was busy every hour of the day, helping the hired help to finish up his haying. His family consists of Alice, his youngest daughter, who is a student at the Academy, and Ida Ballard Thompson, wife of Perley Thompson, I understood that Ida was to be housekeeper and Perley the hired man until Alice finishes her education, then Perley and wife will move into their own cozy home, the Burbank house.

Mr. Ballard has served his native town faithfully for many years. He served nine years as one of the selectmen, served one or more terms in the Legislature, and at least one term as County Commissioner. The Political Bee does not buzz in Dean's ear. He prefers to be a private citizen and when his friends insisted in keeping him in office, he told them that if they elected him he positively would not qualify and that settled it. Dean has been very fortunate in many ways. Five of his children are married and all have good homes of their own, and all live within three miles of the old homestead farm and he is the proud grandfather of 21 grandchildren, while over at the village and within the three mile limit, he has a sister-in-law and three nieces and at Swans Falls a nephew Horace Ballard, who with his wife have a fine family of 11 bright children. Financially Dean has prospered well, "both in basket and in store."

The little seedling, sapling pines that most of us ignored as a nusiance 50 to 70 years ago, grew into great stalwart pines and during the World's War, the Woodman's axe and saw and the portable steam saw mills converted millions of feet of high priced choice pine lumber into cash. I think that nearly every land owner in West Fryeburg shared in the golden harvest that bulged their pocket books and swelled their bank accounts with clean honest money.

Dean was the youngest of seven children and he and his brother, Dr. John Ballard of Galesburg, Ill., are the only ones now living. When I was a boy it was always a great pleasure for me to visit at the Ballard home. Aunt Susan and Uncle George were kind and jovial people to visit with. She was a fine cook and housekeeper and she lived within about three months of the century mark.

At the Boutwell home I did not call, for they were all strangers to me. Five years ago I called and asked permission to pick blueberries in Mr. Hill's pasture on shares. I filled two three quart pails, one for David Hill and one for myself, and that was all the berries I got that year except a few down in Dean Ballard's pasture.

At the Old Colby Homestead I did not call, as the owners Mr. and Mrs. David Hill had both gone home and the place was in the hands of strangers. My mother was born there in 1803. I remember my grandfather and mother Colby well. After my fathers death in 1848 they visited at our house at Swan's Falls for several days. One day mother had gone visiting, grand-ma made a rice pudding with raisins in it, which I have always claimed was the best pudding, that I ever ate. One morning my grandfather sent me across the road to Mr. Swan's for a plug of tobacco which he had sent to town for by Mr. Swan. I tucked the plug into my jacket pocket and returned and delivered it, then fished out of my pocket a leaf of tobacco, which I proceeded to chew and swallow, with the result that I soon Hove up Jonah. That was my last chew of tobacco. The two extremes meet but with different results. Pudding is still by favorite dish, but tobacco I lothe. The old folks were getting old and feeble and grandmother only lived a year or two longer.

When I was about six years old my mother married again and we went to Lovell Center to live and Grandfather visited us once there. When seven or eight years old I visited him at his home with Uncle Jim Colby and Aunt Mary at West Fryeburg. I remember of staying there two nights. There was a boy about my age with whom I slept; grandfather had a room by himself where he ate and slept and stayed most of the time. He asked me each night if I would not sleep with him, I wanted to and promised that I would, but when bed time came aunt Mary sent me to sleep with the other boy. The poor old man was lonely and I have always regretted that I was not allowed to share his bed for those two nights.

My mother had four sisters and one brother all born on Colby farm; James who married Mary Sterling and had the home farm and cared for his father and mother in their declining years; Mary who married John Heath of Green Hill, Ann who married Moses Sawyer, Hannah who married James Kelley of Conway, and Fryeburg, and Betsy who married John McMullen of the village. They all grew up, married and lived all their lives near the old home nest and are buried 'neath the sacred soil of their beloved home land. With the death of Albert Colby I believe that the last descendant of my mother's family by the name of Colby has passed away.

I visited the West Fryeburg Cemetery several times. It is cared for in a way I think by the town. A substantial iron fence is built along the front, and men are hired every fall to mow and remove the grass and weeds from the grounds. Some of the grave stones that were poorly set have fallen and lay flat upon the ground, and in spots the grounds are poorly cared for. In the Colby plot in the cemetery are buried four generations of the Colbys, Robert, James and Albert Colby and their wives and Albert's son, James. I think that Albert had prepared and set while living his own and his first wife's headstones, and also an extra head stone with the names of members of the family who had no head stones, but he made one mistake. He either set out or left in the center of his plot a pine tree, whose low down spreading top completely shades the plot, and the marble tombstones standing in the shade are so stained with mildew as to be almost intelligible. On one of my visits to Maine some years ago I visited with Mr. and Mrs. Hill "nee Colby" at the Old Colby Homestead, and in showing me about the place she pointed out to me a fine tall and handsome clump of white pine trees growing a short way back of the house, which she said she and Albert had transplanted with their own hands and labor from the nearby forest. That little clump of growing pine ought to be an induring monument to Albert and his wife for a long time to come.

In the West Fryeburg Cemetery more than 30 of my kin are laid away, 17 of the Colby kin, and of the Tribe of Abraham 15 which includes my father and mother, two half brothers, and two half sisters and several of their grown up children. The Hutchins, Andrews, Hardy and Haley Annex to the Cemetrey is nicely fenced and well cared for and well supplied with a high grade monuments. Before leaving this part of my story I would like to quote from a little book published by Albert Colby in 1884 entitled "Incidents In My Life, My Birthplace and my Parentage," "I was born in Fryeburg, Oxford County, Maine, Friday morning, January 12, 1827. My birthplace was only a few roads from the New Hampshire State line and a part of my fathers land was in New Hampshire and for months together I spent my days in New Hampshire, my nights in Maine. God made the two states one; and the artificial line made by man, which divides Conway, N. H. from Fryeburg, Maine, was once supposed to be several miles west of its present location and many of the leading citizens of Fryeburg, early history really lived in Conway, N. H. Portland, Maine is the natural seaport of the greater part of New Hampshire, and if the long hoped for millennium ever comes, artificial boundries, human laws, and all taxes will be abolished and Gods Will then shall be done "on earth as in Heaven;" for if all men were true Christians, no human laws or taxes would be needed, but voluntary contributions would supply all the wants of society. The White Mountains are said to be in New Hampshire and their highest summits are in that state, but their base extends far into the State of Maine, and the rivers Saco and Androscoggin carry the larger part of the water that falls on those mountains through the state of Maine into the ocean. Fryeburg and Conway and the adjacent towns south of the White mountains were originally known by the Indian name of Pequawket and owned and occupied by a powerful tribe of the same name, of which Pugus was the last noted chief, who died fighting for his birthright in the famous battle called Lovell's fight A. D. 1725. No place on earth excels in beauty the land of the Pequawkets—the home of my Scotch ancestors—the place of my birth.

"My father, James Colby and my mother, Mary Sterling were married in Conway, N. H. by Rev. Nathaniel Porter, D. D. Oct. 2nd, 1823. I was the second of five children all now living. My earliest remembrance is of Revolutionary Heroes. Our home was surrounded by soldiers of the American Revolution. Our nearest neighbor was Cap. Nathaniel Hutchins, a captain in the war for the Independence of our country, and a lieutenant in the previous French war, and when the war of 1812 broke out, he had a majors commission sent him, but being bowed with the infirmities of old age, and unable again to participate in the "sweet madness of battle" he sat down and wept with an exceeding bitter cry like Easu weeping for his lost blessing. His granddaughter Matilda who most frequently cared for the wants of his declining years, was a noble maiden when I was a child and she was one of my especial patron saints. I remember her and my father's two youngest sisters, Betsy and Hannah as three angels always doing good; and I never heard any one of them speak a word upon any subject that I would have changed and I loved them better than any other person living except my mother. Matilda Hutchins gave me the first present I ever remember receiving and she taught me to speak pieces and to "hurrah for Jackson." She and my mother were always intimate friends and I used to call her "Aunt Tilda," I was taught to call all Revolutionary soldiers "Grandsire" and Grandsire Pettee, Grandsire Cross, Knight, Walker, Heath etc, are still fresh in my memory. My ancestors were mostly Scotch and I can trace them back to Scotland and find their former homes and similar names there still. Matida Hutchins used to tell me stories of William Wallace and King Robert Bruce and she used to teach me to hate the English, but I have since learned to love at least many of them.

"Where are the scholars that went with me to the first school I ever attended?—and the school-master, where is he? Directly opposite the school-house lived David Hardy, and he sent four scholars, David Jr., James, Stephen and Emily, but "Uncle David and Aunt Juda" and the four scholars have been dead for more than twenty years. Next below the school-house lived Jonathan Shirley. His son Mason, was our school-master. He was born with only one hand, and was employed for several seasons, partly out of sympathy. He was a good fellow, full of fun, and very fond of snapping boys' ears. He was not only school-master, but Methodist minister, and a Thomsonian doctor and he sometimes threatened bad boys with a lobela emetic. His youngest brother Jonathan and two sisters were scholars, but "Uncle Jonathan and aunt Hitty," and the schoolmaster and three scholars have all been dead for 30 years. The next house was my fathers. Old age took him to the better world only last year. Next lived Henry Dearborn Hutchins and he sent three scholars, Freeman, Thomas and Mehitable. Thomas only is living but Freeman—dear Freeman—who used to carry me in his arms across the big drifts filled a strangers grave some forty years ago. But I have not space to give a full necrology of our school."

But to continue with my story. Further on down the road from the old Colby farm I meet my old school-mate James Hardy and had several sidewalk chats with him. Like all other men-folks he was busy with his haying. With his faithfull well trained horse to run the hay fork, he does all his haying alone and is independent of the hired man. In the Old Hutchins neighborhood all are strangers to me now. In the fine mansion where Cap. Henry Hutchins lived and where his three salwart sons, Freeman, Henry and Ward grew to manhood, also Pascel, strangers now abide and their names are ingraved on the fine monument in the nearby Cemetery. John the popular Post Master at the village is the only one of the family that I have found any trace of.

At the Willis Farrington place I had several pleasant visits. His family consists of his wife Calista, Nee Andrews' and his mother. They have a fine home and a productive farm. They had a fine tame red raspberry patch which I greatly enjoyed. Calista is her fathers chauffeur and has charge of his fine auto and I enjoyed some pleasant trips with the family.

At the Elmer Walker home I enjoyed several pleasant visits Mrs. Walker, nee Emma Ballard, was keeping summer boarders, while Elmer and his father Edwin Walker and the hired men were busy in the hay field. They have a fine intervale farm and a fine home.

This ends my West Fryeburg story, and my next will take in Chatham. Green Hill and Flag End Street.

My cousin Isaac S. Andrews of Atlantic, Iowa sent me a copy of an Atlantic paper from which I copy the following item: "C. A. Ramasson of Glendive, Montana, former Atlantic real estate dealer has been nominated by President Harding to be internal collector of internal revenue for Montana. Confirmation by the senate is expected in a few days. Mr. Rasmasson who is widly known in this community was at no time a candidate for the position. The official residence of the collector is at Helena. Rasmasson is a former state senator and editor of the Dawson County Review of Glendive. He is a son-in-law of Mr. I. S. Andrews, who lives north of Atlantic."—I. S. Andrews (Ike) was a former Lovell Center boy.

A few days ago I received a letter from Mrs. Etta H. Osgood of Stone Harbor, N. J. from which I take the following extracts which will be of interest to some of your Fryeburg and Conway readers. "A letter from Bell Andrews, Exira, Iowa, tells me that Al had a stroke of apoplexy, Nov. 4th, right side paralized for a time. Is getting able to walk and his mind has cleared. Nathan had a tree fall on him in the woods and is just able to walk. Albert referred to his brother of Hon. John Andrews of Conway N. H. and Nathan is a cousin son of William Andrews formerly of Lovell They are on my visting card and I always hunt them up when I go that way.

This is my 78th birthday and I am feeling fine. Almost a blizzard is raging outside.—Joseph Andrews, Pittsburg.

BRIDGTON ACADEMY MEETING IN BOSTON

The Bridgton Academy Alumni Association of Massachusetts held its twenty-first annual reunion at the Hotel Bellevue in Boston January 20. The meeting was the largest in the history of the Association, sixty-three students and friends of the Academy being present.

The special guest of honor was Professor John F. Moody, now of Auburn, Maine who was principal of the Academy on two different occasions. He spoke most eloquently of the Academy, its past work and its prospects for the future.

Other speakers included Mr. H. H. Sampson, the present Principal of the Academy, the Honorable Leslie P. Snow of Rochester, New Hampshire, Honorable B. G. McIntire of Norway Maine, H. H. Savage, the President of the Trustees of the Academy, Doctor C. B. Sylvester of the Prudential Committee, Charles A. G. Jackson of the Boston Herald, Helen Mead of Peabody, Massachusetts, Mrs. Mabelle Whitehouse Robinson of New York, E. V. Spooner of Exeter, New Hampshire, C. C. Spratt of Woonsocket, Rhode Island and Z. Willis Kemp of Kingston, New Hampshire.

Professor Moody's presence, the opportunity to hear of the present condition of the Academy from its officials, and the renewing of friendships among so many of the old students made the occasion one of the most enjoyable in the history of the Association.

The officers for the following year include: Ernest N. Stevens, Boston, President; Mrs. Susan Foster Solomon, Lynn, Secretary; Willis E. Carsley, Winthrop, Treasurer.

After Inventory, January Clean Up Stock and End of Month Sale In All Departments

Begins Saturday Morning, Jan. 28 and Ends Tuesday Night, Jan. 31

THERE IS FOOD FOR SERIOUS THOUGHT IN THE CLEARANCE SALE NEWS WHICH WE ARE NOW PRINTING

Genuine reductions that are unquestionably real, and in most instances beyond any reasonable expectations. But it is our custom to hold such a sale once each year and this possibly contributes very much to the fact that no unseasonable or long-time carried stocks are ever in evidence here.

We venture to predict that this will be a very popular event. It will be an absolute merchandise round-up of all lots of merchandise after inventory brought together, including quantities of staple all year round merchandise marked at very attractive low prices.

The time for taking advantage of this extremely important sale will be short. It will be necessary for prompt action if merchandise of High Merit is to be secured at a REDUCTION of 25, 33 1-3, to 50 per cent. If in need of Dry Goods or Dry Goods Apparel, you should take advantage of these 3 days' Sale Prices.

Annual Clearance Sale

We feel, however, that special stress may be placed upon the advisability of prompt action in the piece goods department.

Browning Club Banquet

Monday evening, Jan. 23, the Browning Reading Club met at the home of Miss Nellie Andrews for the social time of the year. Supper was served at 6:45 in charge of the program committee, Miss Andrews and Mrs. Lena Andrews. Twenty-three were seated at the tables, which were loaded with good things. The place cards were favors in hte shape of nosegays sent by Mrs. Georgie Andrews of Boston.

While seated at the tables the roll call was responded to with original sayings, many in rhyme. The names of the songs that each one represented were guessed. "Old Black Joe" was there in costume. There were several guessing contests much enjoyed but the spring poetry composed by each one caused the most laughter. It was a red letter evening in the club's calendar.

Mrs. Clara Hayden, observed her 93rd birthday Wednesday with a large family gathering. American Legion Auxiliary Notes

The American Legion Auxiliary met Wednesday evening at 7:30 with President Elizabeth Manning in the chair. Roll call showed all officers present excepting Treas., Gertrude Hosmer and Guardian, Sadie Lapham. A temporary charter has been received, the permanent one to come later. The charter contains fifteen members. The present auxiliary numbers twenty-four. A suitable emblem was chosen.

It was decided to have the card party for the benefit of the Legion boys, Tuesday evening, Jan. 31. Refreshments of candy and peanuts to be served. Hazel Conary was appointed chairman of committee assisted by Harriet Knight, Nettie Nevers and Mrs. Bradbury. The Mystery Box presented by Nettie Nevers was won by Harriet Knight, who will furnish the Box for the next meeting, Wednesday evening, Feb. 8.

Norway Grange

The Grange will have one of their picnic dinners Saturday. All not solicited from are to carry pastry. The Lecturer asked every member who plays a musical instrument to bring the same and help to furnish music for the program.

Prof. Edward Brown will give a short talk on agricultural projects.

Agricultural Club Gathering

Members of the Agricultural class at the high school and instructor, Prof. Edward H. Brown held a social get-to-gether Saturday evening, which was a success. The affair started with a basket ball game in the gym, when the freshmen and sophomores brushed against the juniors and seniors. A fiery contest ensued with Tim Gammon as referee. Both Aggie squads grabbed churn, hay tedders, dump carts and other available farming instruments and smashed over plowed ground like run away oxen. When the crops were harvested the gleanings showed 14 to 12 in favor of the freshmen. Spectators say the game went like gathering the last load of hay before a thunder shower.. No personal fouls were called and Tim let down the bars against the stampede. The winners were E. Cummings, r. f.; H. Nevers, l. f.; A. Packard, r. g. On the losing end were E. Brown, r. f., H. Thurston, C., W. Knightly, l. f., C. Decoster r. g., L. Richardson l. g.

Adjourning to the gricultural rooms, Pres. Asa Packard called the business meeting to order and debate brought out the comparative merits or failings of Holsteins and Jerseys. Warren Knightly defended the black and white pure breds and George Young gave an eloquent appeal for the Jerseys. Each disputant was limited to five minutes. E. E. Watson appeared in rebuttal against Knightly and E. Cummings endeavored to refute G. Young's statements. After a general discussion the judges decided in favor of the Holsteins by eight points.

Refreshments including pop corn peanuts, a variety of candy and apples were served, the remainder of the evening being given to playing "Jenkins."

Poultry selected from Philip Stone's flock went under observation at the rooms Wednesday. As a part of the days work each student judged the birds for utility qualities, comprising health, vigor, vitality, appearance, action, weight, color and type. Unknown to the class Prof. Brown smuggled in a capon that confused the embryo poultry magnates until the joke filtered through.

The 140 egg incubator is being overhauled for the spring hatch. Another machine to be furnished by a student will give a 380 egg capacity total. Eggs are to be furnished by the class when the time arrives. As a part of the shopwork, the boys will build a chicken house and scratch yard to be set up near a sunny window in the class room. When the chicks pip, feeding experiments will be conducted and their development observed.

Mrs. Fred Moore commenced working this week at the local office of the Central Maine Power Co., taking Louise Thomas' place who finished there to accept another position.

Sergt. Osborne of Portland was in town Tuesday on business connected with the armory. Federal inspection will be held the first week in February.

Harry Isaacson has the refusal of a place near Lewiston and plans to move his family and business there early in the spring. Norway parties are negotiating for his buildings at Ward 8.

TAXATION AND HIGH COST OF LIVING

The Middle West is kicking at Pennsylvania freight rates on steel. It is the custom of the steel mills at Pittsburg of charging western consumers of steel products in addition to the market price a charge for "imaginary" freight to the point of consumption, of $7.60 a ton in Chicago above the price of steel at Gary, Indiana. At Duluth, Minn. this overcharge amounts to $13.27 a ton and varies more or less throughout the Middle West. This charge for freight never paid to the carriers is estimated to take out of the pockets of the people in all branches of business and add to the wealth of profiteer steel manufacturers, a sum equal to $75,000,000 a year. Is it any wonder that there is a "farmer's bloc" in both branches of Congress. How long will people stand to be robbed and cheated? It is going to be a hard road to travel evidently before the country gets back to normal conditions.

Representatives of all the interests of the country should have met soon after the war closed and adopted a standard scale of wages, prices, freight rates, etc. Business then might have gone ahead without shock. Now who is wise enough to tell us when this profiteer, cutthroat and skinning of the consumer, period will end.

The Protective Tariff or American System, as advocated by its founders, Henry Clay, Horace Greeley and others was based on the principle that by putting a tax on foreign goods brought into this country, industries would multiply here to such an extent, and create such competition as to bring down prices to reasonable figures—lower even than they would be if foreign manufacturers controlled our markets. But this principle does not apply to those products which are controlled both in quantity and price by great combinations. All the tariffs in the world would not create competition, nor lower prices. They would simply allow by law the profiteers to get enormously rich by skinning the consumer. The steel Trust and the Coal Trust are examples of such infamous combinations, and the list might be extended ad infinitum. Relief will sometime come to a long suffering people if Congress does not pass any tariff laws to grant monoplies to steel, coal and other profiteers, for the cheap products of Europe will come in to prevent their further sucking the life-blood of the consumer. The country will never get back to normal conditions, and normal prices till the reign of the profiteers comes to an end. —Comment.

Who is there today under present conditions in the industries or trades, that is worth a dollar an hour, or who is able to pay such prices? It is unreasonable and excessive. There is no justice in it, and no excuse for it.—Comment.

To those who believe in a Special Providence, there seems to have been in the outcome of recent wars, specially for the United States, results that have taken all the glory out of achievement. It was not so in the war of the Rebellion. At the close of that struggle, four millions of slaves had been freed and it was established that our government had power by the Constitution to protect itself. One million of men on both sides had been sacrificed. Half a million more had been disabled for life. But the lands of the Great West were opened up for farms and homes, the damages caused by the war were speedily repaired and for thirty-five years, there was unexampled prosperity. The profiteers had not then appeared.

On the heels of the Spanish war, where our arms on land and sae had met with small loss of life and a success rarely attained in any war, having acquired valuable islands in the Pacific and in the Gulf of Mexico and Carribean sea, there was raised the cry of "embalmed beef" furnished the soldiers by sordid contractors and the glory of victory died. Again in the World war, when by the sacrifices of the people, four millions of the best blood of the young manhood of the country was sent into the conflict, whereby nearly half a million were lost or disabled, but the survivers returned with the eagles of victory on their standards and covered with immortal glory, the profiteers like a carrion buzzard or a jackal still plied his nefarious work, which silenced the acclamations of victory and took the joy all out of life. Perhaps it was the purpose of an all-wise Providence to thus make men hate war. The profiteers will surely make men sick of war. That is the sole redeeming quality he can plead to save himself from everlasting opprobrium.—Comment.

Living prices in five great cities of the country, New York, Chicago, Detroit, Washington and Philadelphia are still seventy-eight per cent above what they were in 1914. —News Item.

Another Cut in Gasoline Price

Another drop of 1 cent a gallon in the price of gasoline, making the second, has gone into effect in Boston and New England, it was reported. The latest out brings the wholesale price down to 26 cents. The retail price is about 2 cents a gallon higher.

The drop brings the price down to the level prevailing in New York. As prices in New York generally average a cent lower than here, it is likely an additional cut in New York will be made.—Boston News Item.

PHINEAS' PHILOSOPHY

By Win Kimball

"Speaking of the Fellows at the Top"

Lot of room at the top and there don't seem to be a lot of crowding. The feller at the Bottom thinks he ought to be at the top an the feller at the top thinks there ought to be more top on the feller below.

Feels pretty good to be able to shut up shop and go out for a bit of golf after lunch while the clerks get things you left sort of finished.

The old dollar rules the roof an so long as you can make it come to yer roost bein at the top makes yer feel like the Cock of the Walk, among an office full of chickens an other hens and roosters.

If the feeler at the top could read the minds of the feller at the bottom he would know all about his habits, ability and almost his family history. If the feller at the bottom could do likewise or vice er versa, whatever that is, he would get anuther job.

You don't have to know so much as people think if you can get the right kind of fellers to know for yer. You can pay a feller for knowing and get away with it so long as you make him think thet you know. Its a great game if yer don't weaken.

Dr. True's Elixir

The True Family Laxative

Mothers with their home worries are often irregular at meals—have no appetite—are often restless at night—are tired and are troubled with distressed stomachs—need a prompt, pure herb laxative, and such is Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative. The Business man is apt to neglect his health; may eat too hurriedly and at irregular hours. Often this puts the bowels out of order—they fail to function properly—causing fretfulness, taking away the appetite, slowing down the active mind. To relieve these conditions, have a bottle of Dr. True's Elixir handy.

Use it as others have done during the past 70 years.

When the children are out of sight they often eat too many sweets or rich foods. This brings on constipation in many cases.

Watch these symtoms: Constipation, sour stomach, cramps, eyes heavy and dull, bad breath, restlessness, and biliousness. These are common to both children and grown-ups and call for prompt use of a laxative.

To properly cleanse and purify the intestinal tract which is essential to good health; to ward off and relieve constipation and its attending evils use the True Family Laxative, Dr. True's Elixir. 40c, 60c, $1.20.

There are a lot of places offering to give your battery a fresh start in life by putting "dope" in it.

As a matter of fact there isn't any kind of dope made that will take the place of recharging and proper care.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del.—"I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter."—Mrs. WM. S. HUGHES, Greenville, Delaware.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mothers—daughters, why not try it?

DOES IT PAY TO ADVERTISE

One of the principle reasons why the United States has come to the forefront in world affairs is because of its publicity methods, local, state, national, and international. The value of this was demonstrated in the war as never before; and the high ideals with which the average soldier was imbued undoubtedly had their foundation in the inspiring educational campaign engineered by the United States government through voice, word and picture.

What is good from a national view point can undoubtedly be applied to modern business matters; and there can be no surer way to end the slump in trade than by proper publicity methods. He who fails to advertise is lost, as is amply proved by the fact that the biggest firms in the country are the largest advertisers.

EAST HIRAM.

Hon. Llewellyn A. Wadsworth

After a brief illness on Sunday, January first Hon. Llewellyn A. Wadsworth of Hiram passed away. He was born in the town of Hiram some over eighty years ago and there he made his life abode. His wife, nee Annette Clemons passed beyond some ten years ago and since her death he has resided with his son Eli, their only issue.

Mr. Wadsworth was one of those who did not seek fame and achievement for himself alone but was ever ready and willing to lend a helping hand to others. However, he was honored many times with public office. He represented his district in the legislature; served his town as superintendent of schools and selectman for many years; and was one of the oldest Trial Justices and Notaries in the state. He never was admitted to the bar, nevertheless he was fully as conversant with the best legal authorities as many of our barristers and equal, if not superior to some, in a repartee. His retentive memory and Yankee wit have always been a source of much pleasure to his many friends and admirers both at public and private gatherings where he was wont to entertain and here he will be much missed.

Mr. Wadsworth has expressed his regret many times to the writer that he had not devoted his whole time to the law. Perhaps his most natural gift, and one which he had cultivated to some extent, was that of a poet, and we should refer to those beautiful lines, the product of his pen, and especialy those written of departed friends. He sprang from a family of poets, beinga direct descendant of Gen. Peleg Wadsworth, the grandfather of Poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, and our deceased friend's latest picture very much resembles the poet himself.

Mr. Wadsworth in 1914 was chosen to write a poem and historical sketch for the Centennial Anniversary of the town of Hiram which articles are a monument to his memory. For many years he has been a worthy member of the Cngregational church and of the fraternal orders Masonic and Pythian. He was a life long republican and everybody's friend. Long may his Christian life, of a kind and loving husband and father, a good and trusty neighbor and an honorable and upright citizen, be cherished in our memories.

"One morn I mis'd him on the 'custom'd hill,
Along the heath, and near his fav'rite tree;
Another came; nor yet beside the rill,
Nor up the lawn, nor at the wood was he.

"The next, with dirges due in sad array
Slow thro' the church-way path we saw him borne,—
Approach and read (for thou can'st read) the lay,
Grav'd on the stone beneath yon aged thorn."

"Large was his bounty, and his soul sincere;
Heaven did a recompense as largely send;
He gave to misery all he had, a tear,
He gained from Heaven, 'twas all he wished a friend."
